

CV: Jack Clark

OpenAI (September 2016 -Present): San Francisco, USA.
Policy Director

I lead policy and communications for OpenAI, an AI research nonprofit co-founded by Greg Brockman, Ilya Sutskever, Sam Altman, and Elon Musk. Duties include leading our policy agenda, meeting with VIPs (political and others), conducting safety and strategy research and presenting those findings internally and externally, managing all of OpenAI's external communications, and dealing with the media.

The AI Index (February 2017 - present): Stanford University, USA.
Member of the Steering Committee

I am helping to create the initial version of the AI Index, an initiative to track and analyze AI technologies, part of the Stanford One Hundred Year Study on Artificial Intelligence. Duties include analyzing AI progress by studying the research literature and designing the initial incarnations of the index. Other members of the committee: Yoav Shoham of Stanford, Ray Perrault of SRI and Erik Brynjolfsson of MIT.

Bloomberg and BusinessWeek (August 2014 - August 2016), San Francisco, USA.
Reporter

Covered enterprise companies including HP and Salesforce and Oracle. Promoted in Summer 2015 to cover Google. Specialized throughout in leading Bloomberg's coverage of artificial intelligence.

Artificial Intelligence has a 'Sea of Dudes' Problem:

<https://www.bloomberg.com/professional/blog/artificial-intelligence-sea-dudes-problem/>

Who Should Control Our Thinking Machines?:

<https://www.bloomberg.com/features/2016-demis-hassabis-interview-issue/>

The Register (February 2013 - August 2014), San Francisco, USA.
Reporter

Covered distributed systems and emerging technology with a particular focus on novel memory substrates, supercomputers, artificial intelligence, and databases.

ZDNet UK (July 2010 - January 2013), London, UK.
Reporter

Covered enterprise infrastructure across Europe and the world with a particular focus on data centers as they shifted from buying standard hardware to building their own systems.

Adfero (September 2009 - June 2010), London, UK.

Writer

Wrote copy on a number of subjects with a specialism in technology.

EDUCATION:

University of East Anglia, Norwich.

BA English Literature with Creative Writing 2:1 (69.5) (2009)

Thesis: First Class (73)

Varndean College, Brighton

A Levels - English (A), History (A), Philosophy (A), Economics (B), Critical Study of Art (B)

Advanced extension paper: English Literature (Distinction)

Voluntary extension classes: Cryptanalysis, Physics, Creative Writing.